Negotiating for the Biggest Telescope Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 20.-Negotiations are going on between the president of the university of Southern California and Alvan Clarke, of Camof Southern California and Alvan Clarke, of Cambridge, for the construction of a 42-inch lens for the biggest telescope in the world, to be erected on one of the lofty mountains near Los Angeles. Clarke says he can make such a lens in five years for $100,000. It will be 8 inches larger than the lick telescope, and will bring the moon within 60 miles of the earth. The university designs to secure the co-operation of Harvard in astronomical work. The university has a large landed endowment, and there is much local pride here to have the largest telescope in the world.

road last evening near Geneva. The Council Bluffs express was running on parallel tracks to those on which a long freight train ran in an opposite direction. Some mishap caused the fourth or firth car of the freight train to jump the track, dragging other cars with it. The deralled freights smashed against the engine of the passenger train, badly injuring it, then crashed through the train. A fruit car and a baggage car were almost demolished before the trains were brought to a standstill. Engineer Sanburn, of the passenger train, and Express Messenger Yuwell were seriously injured. The baggage master and two helpers in the express car were badly shaken up. Great damage was done to the contents of the truit and baggage cars, the force of the collision being such as to smash the express safe. It also shattered all the glass in the coaches, and frightened the passengers badly. Philip Beckel, of this city, was quite seriously injured about the spine. The W. C. T. U. Convention. DISTRICT LEGISLATION. Bills of Local Interest Which Passed or Failed in Congress.

During the long session of Congress just closed matters of District interest have been quite well cared for. Twenty-six measures relating to local matters became laws, as follows: To extend time for payment of arrears of taxes; to make Decoration Day a legal holiday; to close alleys in square 132; to incorporate the Georgetown Barge, Dock and Elevator and Railroad Company; to incorporate the Brightwood Railway Company; to amend section 685 of the District revised statues relating to write of summons; to complete contract of sale of certain lands to Job Barnard; to authorize the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad to extend a side track into square 1025; to change location of certain alleys; To incorporate the Eckington and Soldiers' Home Railway Co. To refer the case of Samuel Strong against the District to a board of arbitration. To incorporate the Reform School for Giris. Relating to the record of wills in the District. Relating to the subdivision of land. To allow the German Lutheran congregation to sell a part of its cemetery land. To correct the records of the District relating to certain real estate. Authorizing the Hichmond and Danville road to lay tracks in certain squares of the city. Fixing the time of sale and notice of sale for taxes in the District. To amend the charter of the Capitol, North O, and South Washington Railroad. To prevent the sale of adulterated food in the District of Columbia. To authorize the construction of a bridge across Rock Creek at Woodley Lane road. To incorporate the Georgetown and Tenleytown Railroad Co. To prevent pool-selling and book-making in the cities of Washington and Georgetown. To change the route and termini of the Anacostia and Potomac River Railroad. To incorporate Rock Creek Railway Co, Regulating admissions to the institution of the Association of the House of Mercy, and providing for the appointment of police matrons. and Potomac Railroad to extend a side track into OF THE BILLS WHICH FAILED to pass the following are more important: Defining routes of steam railways; to incorporate the Washington and Sandy Spring railway; to validate acknowledgment of wills; to abobish the Poilce Court; prescribing jury trial by Police Court; to incorporate American Trust Company; to limit the price of gas to $1 per 1,000 cubic feet; to confine inebriates in the Insane Asylum; to confine inebriates in the Insane Asylum; bills to incorporate several safe deposit companies; to incorporate the Suburban Railway Co.; to incorporate the Washington Cable Electric Railway Co.; relief of St. Vincent's Orphan Asylum; to protect young girls and punish rape; to increase the police force; to increase pay of attendants at insane asylumns; to incorporate the Washington and Western Maryland Railroad. Besides these there are numerous private bills yet pending in one there are numerous private bills yet pending in one house or the other, and a number of private bills, mainly claims for compensation or damages, were indefinitely postponed during the session. Of course, many of the measures yet pending may be passed at the next session of Congress. STEAM BAILROAD ROUTES. The question of regulating the routes of steam ratiroads in the District, which was so much agitated early in the session, was made a special order in the Senate for June 26, but it was never reached. Several bids were introduced and more or less debated. Finally, Senator Faulkner introduced a bill which it was understood the Baltimore and Ohio was willing to accept. Just before the St. Louis convention the matter was made a special order and there it stuck.

Senator Spooner's bill to regulate the price of gas is on the Senate calendar, where it has been for many months. many months.

The builto provide for high license, after being ordered reported, was returned to the Senate com-mittee, and there it remains. It is scarcely probable that the committee as now organized will take any action toward establishing high license. As Congress neglected to provide salaries for the olice matrons, the act authorizing their appo

UNTIL THE NEXT SESSION, on the theory that by that time, perhaps, som satisfactory method of operating by electricity will have been discovered. As the next sessi will be the short one, there will not likely be much District legislation, but the Commissioners may be able to get the bill to increase the police force and possibly that to tunnel Rock Creek and the one to create Rock Creek park through as politics will not influence Congress so much in behalf of economy, perhaps, as at the session just closed.

To Investigate the Aqueduct.

The House members of the congressional committee appointed to investigate the aqueduct tunnel frauds remained at the Capitol to-day after adjournment, in hopes of meeting the senate members of the committee, with the view of organizing for business immediately. They soon learned, however, that Senators Edmunds, Dawes, and Faulkner are all out of town, and that it would be impossible to do anything. They will hold a meeting this evening at 6 o'clock, and although they will be unable to organize, not being a quorum of the committee, they will have a thorough discussion of the subject.

WHAT SENATOR INGALLS SAYS. Senator Ingalis will leave Washington on Wednesday for Connecticut. A STAR reporter asked him this afternoon if the Senators appointed on him this afternoon if the Senators appointed on the tunnel investigating committee would accept. "Certainly," he replied; "they've got to. They were appointed by authority of a concurrent resolution—a law—and it is not optional with them whether they shall serve or not."

Senator Ingalls said he could not understand the cause of the Secretary of War in appointing a military court of inquiry now; that it was useless to have two investigations contemporaneously in operation. He said he would see Secretary Endicott about it.

final adjournment of Codgress go at once into the campaign. Mr. Mills and Mr. Breckinridge left for New York, the latter yesterday and the lormer the day before. This left Messrs, McMillin and Turner, the only members of the ways and means committee in the city. They both leave for New York between now and Monday. Speaker Carlisle expects to leave for Covington, his home, on Tuesday. He will then go into Onio for one speech, and will deliver four or five speeches in Indiana.

Most of the republican campaigners are already in the field. Messrs. Nutting and Farquhar go at once into New York state to take the stump. After arrangements had been made upon this program, Chairman Brice telegraphed him to come there, but he has decided that it will be impossible for him to do so.

death of Second Lieut, Leroy E Sebree on January 29, 1888, leaves the number of second heutenant at fourteen, while the reorganization of the office force has reduced the enlisted men from 470 to 320. For the first time in the history of the corps the civilian assistants, who have performed fo years valuable scientific work under the disadvantages of temporary and uncert in tenure of office are now recognized as professors and assistant professors and form a part of the regular office force. Gen. Greely is of the opinion that the corps could be economically reduced. A PROPOSED REORGANIZATION. Became laws without signature 95; vetoed, 128; failed for want of signature at time of adjourn

He says that an organization comprising, be sides the Chief Signal Officer, one major, five captains, five first lieutenant, two professers, and three assistant professers would be sufficient, provided the officers were competent for all duties. He says that the grade of second lieutenant should not exist in the corps, and no officer should be retained or promoted who is incompetent. The corps should be 125 sergeants (25 first-class observers) for great cities, and 100 second-class observers for great cities, and 100 second-class observers), 50 corporals and 50 privates. In such latter case the appropriations for pay and allowance of enlisted men could be reduced $100,000, and in lieu of such a sum should be appropriated $80,000 for the pay of civilian assistants. With such provise the assistants at abserving stations throughout the country could be economically replaced by civilian assistants, as at many stations the work is such as to require the aid of an assistant only six months in the year. It is recommended that in lieu of the complicated system of commutations for quarters, fuel, rations and clothing a fixed sum shall be granted to every man in the corps not receiving allowances in kind. sides the Chief Signal Officer, one major, five cap-THE PAY INADEQUATE.

The report again invites attention to the inadequacy of the present methods to insure proper instruction in military signaling at Army posts. The records show that less than one line Army officer out of nine has received any instruction in signaling during the year. Out of 114 posts, 84 have neglected instruction one or more months: 20, 6 or more months, and at 4 posts no instruction has been had during the year. Gen. THE CIVIL SERVICE LAW. Mr. Blackburn Submits a Minority Report to the Senate.

operations on the civil service, and asked that it be printed with the majority report.

It is declared that an effort had persistently been made by the majority against the protest of the minority to limit the irquiry to the time covered by the present Administration, and all efforts to bring out the facts as to the operations of the law under previous republican administrations were invariably denied by a strict party vote. Despite the efforts of the majority, however, the report declares it appeared from the testimony of several of their witnesses that all the evils and abuses complained of to-day came down to this Administration as an inheritance. printed with the majority report.

THE LETTING OF ASSESSMENTS upon Government officials for partisan purposes was in general, if not universal, practice prior to March, 1885, and discrimination in the matter of appointment because of political views was by no means a novel feature, nor one which has been introduced by the present administration.

THE NEW YORK CUSTOM HOUSE. The testimony with regard to the New York cus-tom house, it is declared, shows that nine-tenths of the witnesses who testified were dismissed officials, anxious to air their grievances and to tell what an outrage had been perpetrated by reason of their dismissal from office.

The minority declared that after reading the majority report carefully, the conclusion is well nigh irresistable that an improvement of the civil service of the country was not the idea kept in view, and that the purpose of the framers was not to enlighten the country as was proposed in the resolution.

Nearly fifty type-written pages of the report are devoted to the analysis of the testimony taken with respect to New York, Pennsylvania, Mary-land, and Indiana, and the points made in the majority report are discussed at length. REPUBLICANS IN OFFICE. The report concludes: "If this proof, taken from four cities or from four states is to be accepted as four cities or from four states is to be accepted as evidence of the present condition of the public service throughout the country, intelligent men will realize and honest men will admit that to-day, after nearly four years of democratic rule, there are ten republicans holding office and drawing pay from the Federal Treasury where there was one democrat in the service on the 4th of March, 1885. Under a democratic Administration it is not to be wondered at it, conditions being equal, preference has been given to democratic applicants for office. Plato dreamed of an ideal republic, but the world never witnessed of an ideal republic, but the world never witnessed its realization. No system of government nor court of law has ever been devised by human wiscourt of law has ever been devised by human wisdom that was perfect. Whether the civil service law be good or bad, truth and candor compels the admission that its execution has been more just and fair under this Administration than ever before. Whether the fidelity with which the President and his subordinate officers have sought to observe this law was wise, may be disputed, but the honesty of purpose with which he and they have endeavored to execute it cannot be truthfully denied. An army execute it cannot be truthfully denied. An army of holding-over republican officials is to-day draw-ing its in intenance from the Treasury of this country, and if current report be true, CONTRIBUTING FROM THEIR SALARIES to the effort that is being made to dislodge from power the party at whose sufferance they hold their places. In the light of the proof, suppressed, and in many instances distorted, as the majority report shows it to be, the question naturally arises, was ever a more desperate effort made, employing more reckiess and desperate methods, to serve or save a more desperate cause? Canada will not permit the claim to be made that in every instance every officer of the Government, superior and subordi-nate, has been exactly and judicially fair, and has acted without regard to the natural and inevit-able bias that comes from sincere conviction, but fair minded men will take up the record and will declare that this Administra-tion has not been jacking in an honest, carnest tion has not been tacking in an honest, earnest, persistent and successful effort to execute the law and make good the piedges that it and its party gave to the American people."

Senator Blackburn to-day submitted a volumin How Washington Benefits ous minority report from the committee on the OF WINTER RESIDENTS HERE. "There is no doubt," said a prominent real estate dealer to a STAR reporter this morning, "but that the yellow fever plague in Florida is going to benefit Washington considerably. While there is no general movement in the real estate market at the present time I look to a large influx of Fiorithe present time I look to a large influx of Flori-dians who do not want to go any further south this winter and have been driven from their homes by the plague. They will take rooms at hotels for a time and then, growing fond of the city, will be-gin to think of locating here, some only for the winter, but many permanently. Washington is a city to which visitors easily become attached, and it will possess great attractions to these people in the way of climate. Folks are like fishes: having once been to a place they like they are very apt to return, year after year, to the same spot, making it their home. I look to see Washington gain a number of new citizens from the yellow fevel refugees."

The Case of Dr. Hutton. SSISTANT DISTRICT ATTORNEY LIPSCOMB THINKS THE LAW RAS BEEN VIOLATED—WHAT DIRECTORS OF GAB-FIELD HOSPITAL SAY.

The publication yesterday of the question raised about the appointment of Dr. Hutton as resident physician of Garfield Hospital has caused a discussion among the legal lights as to whether the appointment was made in violation of the law against the importation of foreigners or not, When a Star reporter called the attention of Assistant District Attorney Lipscomb to the matter that official referred to the case of an English ciergyman who came to New York to act as pastor of a leading church. In this case the congregation was held under the law for importing the clergywas held under the law for importing the clergy-man. The same law, he said, applies to physicians, "I certainly think it is a shame," said Mr. Lips-comb, "that a Canadian should be brought here when there are so many young physicians in this city and other parts of the United States. If it is true, as stated, that Dr. Hutton is a Canadian I certainly think the case comes within the law and it is the duty of the District attorney's office to bring suit."

Mr. Reginald Fendall, a representative of the legal profession on the board of directors, said that he did not care to discuss the matter at pres. stated that when the election took place the ques-tion of the law on the subject was not brought to their attention. He stated that a meeting of the executive committee would soon be held to discuss the matter, and that the facts will then be made public. Mr. Henry A. Willard, president of the board, says that the question of law was not thought of when Dr. Hutton was selected. The only aim of the board was to get the best available man for the place. The resident physician in madition to board was to get the best available man for the place. The resident physician in addition to being a good doctor must be a man of executive ability. He has under his charge the manage-ment of the institution, and has to direct the staff of subordinates so as to secure the best results. The question of his being a Canadian was not con-sidered, as he seemed to fill the other require-
